Miami Beach Stars on Court TV

"Beach Patrol: Miami Beach," a documentary show highlighting the City's Ocean Rescue team, will debut on Court TV Monday, July 10 at 8:00 p.m. The six-episode series depicts public safety agencies (police, fire rescue and ocean rescue) working together in Miami Beach.

The shows were shot over the spring break season earlier this year. The production crews were linked to the lifeguards on duty and were at the scene to cover an incident when it was occurring.

Tune in every Monday and follow Miami Beach's Ocean Rescue team hard at work – from breaking up rowdy beach crowds to rescuing riptide victims.

City Commission Meetings Now Closed Captioned

CC CC2 The City of Miami Beach will offer real-time English and Spanish closed captioning service on live telecasts of commission meetings on the City's government access cable channel 77 beginning July 12. The City is the first municipality in the country to offer Spanish-language closed captioning.

"This service will give our hearing-impaired as well as our Spanish-speaking citizens the opportunity to tune-in regularly to follow their government at work," said Miami Beach City Manager Jorge M. Gonzalez.

During the telecast, viewers have the option of turning the closed captioning feature on or off in conjunction with the television set's menu settings. Closed captioning displays the audio portion of a program as text on the screen: "closed caption 1" for English and "closed caption 2" for Spanish. The service also provides the City with an unofficial transcript of each commission meeting.

There is More Buzz on Noise

On Wednesday, July 12, the City Commission will once again consider amendments to the new noise ordinance to address, among other things, issues relating to construction noise and noise violations that occur during illegal, commercial uses of single-family homes. Also included for consideration is an amendment that would reduce the number of written warnings provided in residential neighborhoods from three to one.

An important element of the proposed amendment relates to construction and construction noise on Sundays and holidays. As proposed, only construction that does not violate the noise ordinance (ie. quiet construction such as interior painting) would be permitted from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Sundays and holidays in residential neighborhoods or commercial districts located within 300 feet of residential districts. No construction of any type would be permitted earlier than 10:00 a.m. or later than 4:00 p.m. on a Sunday or holiday in these areas. Only quiet construction would be permitted in all other commercial districts on Sundays and holidays.

The previous amendments dealt with conditions that might trigger the need for a temporary permit for construction noise to occur beyond the allowable daily times, such as when the Florida Building Code requires certain construction to be done without interruption (e.g. the continuous pouring of concrete for a building foundation).

Hurricane Preparedness Tip

Have a plan to secure your boat. Prepare to move your boat when a hurricane is likely. If possible, put your boat on a trailer and take it further inland, instead of storing them in high-rise storage racks. If you must leave your boat in water, make sure it is securely anchored, secure extra lines and add chafe protection. Check with your local marina for more advice.

TRAFFIC CONTROL

63rd Street Flyover: The westbound lane on 63 Street has been relocated to the south side of the bascule bridge. There will continue to be one eastbound lane and one westbound lane. This traffic switch was made to accommodate the removal of the northern leaves of the bascule bridge beginning Monday, July 10.
